

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

An organic electroluminescence element has a laminate of an anode, a hole injecting layer made of an organic compound and laminated in contact with the anode, a light emitting layer made of an organic compound, an electron transport layer made of an organic compound, and a cathode. The light emitting layer includes a carbazole compound as a main component and includes an iridium complex compound at a concentration of 0.5 wt% to 8 wt%.